

A WEBSITE YOU DIDN'T ASK FOR — AND AN HONEST INVOICE FOR IT

THE WORK BEHIND THE RED THREAD.

This is not a cold quote. It is a plain account of a website that was designed, built and shipped for you — what went into it, what it is genuinely worth, and the modest figure I'm actually asking you to pay.

PREPARED FOR

Andie Hassani Business Coaching

Andie Hassani · Business & decision coaching for women entrepreneurs · Dubai

PREPARED BY

Shishir Babu

Independent design & front-end development ·
mr.shishirbabu@gmail.com

PROPOSED WEBSITE CONCEPT

Red Thread Decision Studio — a working title, offered for your consideration

01

A NOTE BEFORE THE NUMBERS

A little while ago one of your LinkedIn posts came across my feed. I wasn't looking for work — I just kept reading. The thinking was clear, generous and unusually honest about how women actually build businesses. So I did the thing good writing makes you do: I clicked through to your profile to find out more.

And there the trail stopped. A strong voice, a real methodology, clients who clearly valued the work — but no home of your own on the web. Everything pointed to a studio that didn't yet have a front door. That gap is exactly the kind of problem I like, so rather than send a pitch, I built the answer first.

The more I read, the more the site wanted a specific shape. Your work moves people from competing advice and noise, through the signal of what is actually true for them, into a decision, and then into sustainable movement. That isn't a template. So I designed around it — a Red Thread framework, with Align → Strategise → Act as a proposed organising spine — and made the site behave like the coaching it represents.

I built the website first, then earned the right to send the invoice second. You are holding the invoice — the website is already yours to see.

ON WHY THIS DOCUMENT EXISTS AT ALL

So this statement has one job: to make the price make sense. Custom work like this usually arrives as a single intimidating number with no explanation. I'd rather show you the seams — every part of the work, what a studio would ordinarily charge for it, and then the deliberately small figure I'm asking, because this began as a gesture, not a sale. No pressure sits behind any of it. If it isn't right for you, that is a completely fine answer.

The pages that follow: 02 — the creative idea I am proposing. 03 — what was actually built, in plain terms. 04 — the cost, split line by line, with the reason for each. 05 — friendly terms, and how little is due to begin.

02

THE CREATIVE IDEA I AM PROPOSING

The Red Thread is a proposal, not an assumption.

As I read through your writing, I noticed a consistent movement beneath the individual subjects you discuss. Women often arrive surrounded by noise — competing advice, external expectations, too many possible directions and the pressure to make the “right” move. Your work appears to help them separate that noise from what is genuinely true — for the person and for the business — so they can make a clearer decision and turn it into sustainable action.

I TRANSLATED THAT MOVEMENT INTO A PROPOSED WEBSITE NARRATIVE

NOISE

Competing advice, expectation & overwhelm.

→

SIGNAL

What is genuinely true — person & business.

→

DECISION

Clarity converted into a real choice.

→

MOVEMENT

Focused, sustainable action.

WORKING TITLE

The Red Thread Decision Studio

The “red thread” is not something I am claiming as your existing methodology, brand name or intellectual property. It is my creative interpretation of the connective quality I see in your work — the line that brings personal alignment, commercial strategy and focused action into one coherent direction.

The red comes from the visual identity already associated with your brand. The thread became the metaphor for continuity — one idea travelling through the entire experience, rather than a collection of disconnected coaching pages.

WHY I BELIEVE THE CONCEPT FITS

- Makes an intangible service tangible — visitors grasp the movement before the individual offerings.
- Connects the person and the business — inner alignment without losing commercial seriousness.
- Gives one memorable organising idea — every page, interaction and call to action belongs to it.
- Sets you apart from standard coaching sites — a point of view, not service cards and carousels.
- Grows with the business — new services, articles and tools slot in without weakening the story.

*This is the creative direction I am putting forward — not a decision I have made on your behalf. If the language feels true, we can refine it together and make it yours. If it does not, the underlying website and strategic architecture remain valuable; we can rename or reinterpret the metaphor without starting again. The Red Thread is my opening proposition — the beginning of a conversation, not the conclusion of one.

03

WHAT THE FEE IS ACTUALLY FOR

Not a one-page template with your photo dropped in. This is a complete, production-grade website — a small ecosystem of pages, a custom motion language, and the search and AI-discovery plumbing that lets the right people find you.

25 DISTINCT PAGES & ROUTES	9.7k LINES OF CODE HAND-WRITTEN	5 CUSTOM MOTION SYSTEMS BUILT	0 OFF-THE-SHELF THEMES USED
--	---	---	---

A PROPOSED NARRATIVE SPINE — MADE WALKABLE

NOISE Competing advice & expectation, met head-on.	→	SIGNAL What is commercially & personally true.	→	DECISION Clarity converted into a real choice.	→	MOVEMENT Focused, sustainable next action.
--	---	--	---	--	---	--

THE PAGES YOU NOW OWN Home, About, Method / Approach, Coaching overview and individual pathways, Results & client evidence, Start Here diagnostic, Clarity Audit, an Insights library with article pages, an interactive Focus Planner, a Tools directory, Contact, plus Accessibility and Privacy.	SIGNATURE INTERACTIONS A hand-drawn hero thread, physics-based chapter threads with real gravity and spring, a scroll-controlled Noise → Signal manifesto, and the interactive Decision Instrument that replaced a generic card grid.
BUILT ON Next.js 16 · React 19 · TypeScript Canvas 2D · requestAnimationFrame physics Tailwind · Vercel-ready build	FOUND & UNDERSTOOD Per-page titles & descriptions, canonical URLs, Open Graph previews, XML sitemap, robots, JSON-LD structured data, an RSS feed and an 11ms.txt AI-readable profile so answer engines describe you correctly.

Because it is real code rather than a page builder, the site is fast, accessible (with reduced-motion alternatives throughout), fully yours, and extendable — new services, articles and tools drop straight into the same system.

04

WHY IT COSTS
WHAT IT COSTS

The left column is the honest studio value of each part — what an agency would charge. Read it, then see the figure I’m actually asking at the foot of the page.

REF	COMPONENT OF THE WORK	STUDIO VALUE
RT·01	Discovery, research & positioning strategy Studying your writing & audience, category research across coaches, and shaping the proposed Red Thread framework that makes the whole site one idea.	$2,200
RT·02	Brand & visual design system Editorial layout system, type hierarchy, the six-colour palette, the red-thread motif and every reusable component — a look that is only yours.	$2,600
RT·03	Signature motion & interaction design The five custom Canvas / physics systems — hero thread, chapter threads, scroll manifesto, Decision Instrument. Hand-built, not a plugin.	$2,800
RT·04	Front-end engineering & build 25 pages built in Next.js 16 / React 19 / TypeScript — the largest single piece: components, dynamic routes, data and interactive tools.	$5,400
RT·05	Content architecture & editorial structure Shaping your method into pages, section flow, FAQs, insight articles and the words that carry each page.	$1,100
RT·06	SEO & AI-search infrastructure Metadata, sitemap, robots, JSON-LD, RSS, social previews and the llms.txt profile — so search engines and AI answer engines get you right.	$1,600
RT·07	Accessibility & responsive engineering Reduced-motion alternatives, semantic structure and layouts tuned for desktop, tablet and mobile.	$1,300
RT·08	Deployment, QA & handover Validating all routes, production build, Vercel deployment and handing you full ownership of the source.	$700
TOTAL STUDIO VALUE		$17,700
FOUNDING-CLIENT GOODWILL REDUCTION		-$14,100
AMOUNT I’M ACTUALLY ASKING		USD 3,600

≈ AED 13,220 · roughly 80% below studio value

05

EASY TERMS, NO PRESSURE

The reduced figure can be paid in three equal, interest-free instalments — so nothing lands all at once. Pay in full if you prefer; there's a small thank-you for that below.

INSTALMENT 1 — ON ACCEPTANCE $1,200 the day you say yes	INSTALMENT 2 — DAY 30 $1,200 30 days later	INSTALMENT 3 — DAY 60 $1,200 60 days later
---	---	---

INCLUDED — NO EXTRA CHARGE Deployment to Vercel, full source-code ownership, a short walkthrough, and one round of refinements after handover.	PAY-IN-FULL THANK-YOU Settle the full amount up front and it's $3,400 — a small $200 gesture back to you.
WHAT STAYS WITH YOU A domain name (~$15/yr) and hosting — Vercel's free tier is plenty to launch, so hosting starts at $0.	IF IT'S NOT RIGHT That's a fine answer — there's no obligation, and no awkwardness. The work was offered in good faith.

A note on the discount: the studio value on the previous page is real, not theatre — it is what this work costs when commissioned cold. The reason your figure is so much smaller is simply that I started it for you, unasked, because the writing was good. You're paying for the craft, not the sales process.

With genuine respect for the work you do,

Shishir Babu · mr.shishirbabu@gmail.com

INDEPENDENT DESIGN & FRONT-END DEVELOPMENT

ah